MADA G

Lebanese jewellery designer

"Diversity, universalism and the ability to adapt and act to challenging situations creatively have always been core strength of the Lebanese. The Lebanese are a people with rich culture and are exposed to so many daily challenging situations that it becomes human nature for them to express their opinions through different mediums; art and satire are currently two very prominent mediums. Art is definitely a medium, which I favour since art is how I express myself... I also believe that art can present opportunities of growth that can transform our future and can better help us define and understand one another... So if I were to rate the realm of design, I would say in terms of design stemming from creative art, the Lebanese have so much to give and are doing a fantastic job..."
